What video game genre are you most familiar with?	How do you decide which games to play?
Platformers	Talk with my friends
JRPG	Trailers and reviews. If it has a promising storyline and/or characters, the gameplay looks fun, and the music is good, I definitely want to play.
adventure	I only play choice-based games on my phone
Interactive/choose your adventure	Reviews/trailer
Black ops/fortnite	Whatever I'm feeling that day
Adventure	Previous knowledge or through trailers and reviews
Platform game	What ever is at my disposal
Platform, rpg	Whatever I'm feeling
Music/Sports/Entertainment	Little effort and learning about how to play them
Dance games (Just Dance)	non-violent
Sports	I typically play the newest sports games. I think these are the most fun, and they're what my friends play as well.
call of duty- shooting	Background story and design
Leisure	Whatever my friends have simulation (the Sims)	whatever sounds fun and relaxing
Sports	Whatever friends suggest
RPGs	Company who created it; similar games in the same genre; games part of a series
NBA 2K	The ones my friends tell me about
Action-adventure	Online reviews, recommendations from friends
Adventure?	Whatever looks the most fun and entertaining
N/A	I don't
Sports	Whatever my friends want to play. I'm also taking a class that requires playing a video game.
Fantasy/Roleplaying	Good amount of content in the game. Must be able to keep me occupied with different types of activities for a good while
Mario	Who I am with
mario kart	if it's popular at the time

Have you interacted with augmented reality before? If yes, please explain.	Where do you currently see augmented reality headsets being used?
No	Idk
Honestly my only experience with AR is Pokémon Go.	I don't really see them aside from a short segment during a tech or gaming conference.
I've watched playthroughs of a bit	by youtubers
No	Gaming conventions
Yes, I have the goggles	The mall
Yes there was a game on the PSP that uses cards to scan monstets into the real world	Never really
No	In personal homes for gaming
Pokémon go	E3
No	At Gaming Conventions (Ex. E3)
n/a	in Grady lol
No	I don't.
Pokémon go	Games and science research

No	Expos
Yes. Snapchat, USDZ files	The NMI lol
No	Best Buy (?)
No	At the mall or on tv
Pokémon GO	Usually in presentations where people want to showcase their program
Only through smartphone apps	Aircraft, vehicles, military
No	at their homes?

What challenges do you see concerning augmented reality headsets?
Idk
Practicality. Kind of the same struggles as VR, but VR has become a lot more common than it was just a few years ago, so I imagine AR isn't far behind.
running into objects
Being use as a reliable resource. Sounds like another expensive useless toy that there is no point of purchasing
It can be dangerous
Getting them functioning flawlessly and having a power supply
Disoriented
People getting distracted
Expenses
unaware of surroundings
People getting too immersed in a fantasy world.
The price
People thinking they are in another reality
cost, practicality
Smoothness of gameplay
Accuracy of any element being depicted in a space
How easy they are to use
Price
Lack of accessibility. Only available to those who can afford them. Also lack of knowledge. Most people don't know they exist or can be used normally.
They're poorly made
People might become disoriented or nauseous
The technology is still new and will change so often bulkiness
They are expensive

What advances could be made with augmented reality headsets?	Would you consider ow	If yes, what would your
